

Human Trafficking: Prevention and Intervention

PRESENTER:

Megan Rheinschild

This course will review the definition of human trafficking, the indicators of human trafficking among children and youth and identify the vulnerabilities for individuals at risk. Ms. Rheinschild will discuss human trafficking in Santa Barbara County, as well as provide the processes for reporting suspected human trafficking and interventions that may be used.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES:

- Explain indicators of human trafficking among children and youth
- Identify vulnerabilities for individuals at risk of human trafficking
- Examine human trafficking in Santa Barbara County
- Describe process for reporting suspected human trafficking

MEGAN RHEINSCHILD graduated from UCSB with degrees in Sociology and Spanish, having also studied at the National Autonomous University in Mexico City. Ms. Rheinschild has worked at the Santa Barbara County District Attorney's Office in the Victim Witness Assistance Program since 1994. She is responsible for oversight of a program that provides comprehensive services, support and advocacy to victims of violent crime and their family members.

Collaborating with local, regional and state partners, she formed a Human Trafficking Victim Advocacy Program and began a multi-agency countywide Human Trafficking Task Force in 2013 to identify and investigate human trafficking and address the complex needs of survivors. She also has oversight of the countywide Sexual Assault Response Team, a collaborative partnership of Law Enforcement, Public Health, Rape Crisis Centers and Child Welfare Services, to provide medical-legal forensic exams and advocacy to survivors of sexual assault.

In addition to her local responsibilities, Ms. Rheinschild is the Chair of the California Crime Victim Assistance Association's Training Committee that delivers an array of courses to victim service professionals.
